

Mele Look, MBA

Mele Look has worked as a health researcher, community advocate, and health administrator for nearly 40 years. Presently she is Director of Community Engagement in the Department of Native Hawaiian Health at the University of Hawaii's John A. Burns School of Medicine. Ms. Look founded and facilitates the Ulu Network, a cardiometabolic health community coalition which has grown to 41 community-based organizations with over 80 sites that serve Native Hawaiians and other Pacific Peoples across Hawai'i and the continental U.S. She received her Master's in Business Administration from University of California, Berkeley. Her research includes pioneering studies in the area of Native Hawaiian mortality and recently has been focusing on initiatives that merge cultural practices and health objectives.