

Lourdes R. Guerrero, EDD, MSW

Dr. Lourdes R. Guerrero is an Associate Professor of Medicine at the David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA in the Division of General Internal Medicine and Health Services Research and Geriatrics. She is the Associate Director for the Geriatric Workforce Enhancement Program (GWEP), TimeOut@UCLA (an intergenerational respite program for caregivers of individuals with Alzheimer's and dementia) and the Resource Center for Minority Aging Research (RCMAR) Coordinating Center (beginning July, 2019). She is also on the evaluation team for the NIH Diversity Program Consortium and UCLA Coordination and Evaluation Center. Dr. Guerrero has professional experience working in graduate medical education, higher education policy, and community-based social services and training. Her research interests include models of Latino student success, evaluation research, diversity in the biomedical workforce, and the health and well-being of caregivers (for older adults, especially those with Alzheimer's disease and other dementias).

Dr. Guerrero obtained her Doctor of Education degree from UCLA and Master of Social Work degree from the Catholic University of America in Washington, DC. She also has a Master of Pastoral Ministry degree from the Franciscan School of Theology and a BA in Chicano Studies from UC Berkeley. She has served on the board of directors of various non-profit organizations including Ready, Set, Read! and MEND (Meet Each Need with Dignity), and worked on consulting projects with the Monterey County Office of Education/Migrant Education Office, the Latina Researchers Network, and the Alzheimer's Association of Los Angeles.
